

We've received a number of questions about the origins of HBARbarian and its tokenomics, so as the original creator, I wanted to provide some more information.

Seeing all the rug-pull memecoins and anonymous creators of suspicious tokens, I decided that the Hedera community deserved a serious and transparent memecoin. A memecoin that would resonate with all Hbarbarians and HBAR OGs out there.

That's when I decided to create $HBARbarian - token ID 0.0.4816828.

Here's everything you need to know and how it got started.

The total supply is 10,000,000,000. I currently hold 600M - and to date haven't sold a single one. This is only 6% of total supply. The rest went straight to LP. I didn't distribute these to anyone.

I created this token using Davincigraph therefore, if their end is safe then this is safe too. I used my own funds to provide liquidity on Saucerswap. I then burnt this liquidity on Davincigraph.

I put 95% of supply into the liquidity pool and kept 5% as I believe this is a fair amount for me to keep without the chance to 'dump' on investors.

I realised that with low liquidity, there wouldn't be any interest so I bought more using my own funds off Saucerswap. I then allocated most of that into the LP again, locking the LP token this time. For more exposure, I did not burn this purely so that it appears on the Davincigraph lock page.

Therefore, 8.7% of liquidity is locked for 5 years and rest of the liquidity is burnt forever.

I do not have ANY keys so I can't amend anything. The future of this project is now firmly in the hands of the HBARbarian community.

From one HBARbarian to another,

CryptoTroll

@OCryptoTroll

19/03/2024